How am I doing?

Good—The play and learning in my setting is led by the children's interests. All areas of learning are considered when planning activities.

How do I know?

- Resources in my setting are visible so children can see the full range they have to choose from independently.
- I use floor books and photographs to help children plan and evaluate future and past activities.
- I consult with parents about their child's interests in the All About Me section of their care plan.
- I use care plans to inform the activities we do.
- I plan and consult with the children when I purchase new resources.
- I am committed to my own learning and am working towards my SVQ Children and Young People.

What am I going to do now?

I will aim to complete my SVQ by the end of the year. I will continue to identify methods of involving children in our planning and evaluation and recording their input.
